Re: Complaint Against Democratic Freshmen PAC, et al.

Dear Ms. Duncan:

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(1) and 11 C.F.R. § 111.4, please accept this letter as a Complaint against Democratic Freshmen Political Action Committee ("Democratic Freshmen"), Democrats Win Seats Political Action Committee ("DWS PAC"), Victory In November Election Political Action Committee ("VINE PAC"), Representative Debbie Wasserman Schultz and Representative Mike Thompson.

Democratic Freshman, DWS PAC, and VINE PAC are operating in violation of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (the "Act"), and Federal Election Commission ("FEC" or "Commission") regulations by failing to register and report with the Commission as affiliated political committees, accepting excessive contributions and making excessive contributions to candidates.

Wasserman Schultz and Thompson are in essence running three PACs. They both have leadership PACs and are now honorary co-chairmen of Democratic Freshmen. As evidenced by the pattern of contributions and expenditures of the three committees, Wasserman Schultz and Thompson are doing nothing more than circumventing the contribution limits in their effort to curry favor and support from their Democrat colleagues.

According to its website, www.democraticfreshmen.org, Democratic Freshmen was established in 2006 to raise money for the re-election of freshmen Democratic Representatives in 2008.

According to an article in Roll Call, the PAC held its first fundraiser in January 2007. The Democratic Freshmen website lists the honorary co-chairs of the PAC as Thompson and Wasserman Schultz. Additionally, Thompson has been quoted by The Washington Times as the co-chairman of Democratic Freshmen.¹

In addition to his principal campaign committee, Thompson established VINE PAC in 2002 which allows him to make contributions to federal candidates. See Exhibit B. Similarly, Wasserman Schultz established DWS PAC in 2006 in order to make contributions to federal candidates. See Exhibit C.

Contributions from Democratic Freshmen, DWS PAC and VINE PAC all but mirror one another. Twenty nine candidates received contributions from Democratic Freshmen and twenty eight of those candidates also received contributions from DWS PAC. Similarly, twenty four candidates that received contributions from Democratic Freshmen received contributions from VINE PAC. Importantly, several of these contributions when aggregated, exceed the contribution limits. For example, DWS PAC contributed $7,500 to Tim Mahoney for Florida and Democratic Freshmen contributed an additional $3,000 for a total of $10,500. Similarly, VINE PAC contributed $10,000 to McNerney for Congress and Democratic Freshmen contributed an additional $3,000 for a total of $13,000. See Exhibit D.

Furthermore, the same contributors are donating to all three PACS. Democratic Freshmen and DWS PAC have thirteen contributors in common. Similarly, Democratic Freshmen and VINE PAC have ten common contributors. Of those contributors, there are at least two instances where contributions were made to Democratic Freshmen and VINE PAC on the same date. See Exhibit E.

Commission regulations state that "all committees...established, financed, maintained or controlled by the same...person, or group of persons...are affiliated." 11 C.F.R. § 100.5(g)(2). The Act states that "all contributions made by political committees established or financed or maintained or controlled by any...person, or by any group of...persons, shall be considered to have been made by a single political committee." 2 U.S.C. § 441a(a)(5). Commission regulations also state that "all contributions made or received by more than one affiliated committee, regardless of whether they are political committees under 11 § C.F.R. 100.5, shall be considered made or received by one political committee." 11 § C.F.R. 110.3. Furthermore, the Act explicitly forbids any person from making contributions "...to any other political committee...in any calendar year which, in aggregate, exceed $5,000." 2 U.S.C. § 441(a)(1)(A).

Wasserman Schultz and Thompson circumvent the contribution limits of the Act and Commission regulations and raise more money for their colleagues than they could individually with their own leadership PACs by using Democratic Freshmen as nothing more than a vehicle for excessive contributions.

Accordingly, we respectfully request that the Commission conduct an immediate investigation into the violations outlined above and impose the maximum penalty under law.

The foregoing is correct and accurate to the best of my knowledge, information and belief.

Respectfully submitted,

Elizabeth N. Beacham

Republicans Grid for Big Losses in Congress

June 17th, 2008
FROM THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

By BARBAR LURCK
June 16, 2008, Page A1

WASHINGTON — Republicans are bracing for double-digit losses in the House and the prospect of four or five losses in the Senate, as they head to hold a wide range of districts and states currently seen as safe for them, from Alaska and Colorado to Mississippi and North Carolina.

The feared setback for Republicans, coming two years after their 2006 doubling, is unexpected for several reasons. It is rare for a party to lose two election cycles in a row. And many expect losses even if their presidential candidate, John McCain, captures the White House.

ONE EXAMPLE ON CONGRESSIONAL MATH

Democrats already hold majorities in the Senate and House. Democrats hold 48 seats in the Senate, and they also have the votes of the chamber's two independents. In the House, Democrats have 235 seats compared with 199 for Republicans.

But a wider range of control in both chambers would give the party a more visible majority, a change that could let it push more ambitious agendas on health care, energy policy and tax reform. While Democrats are likely able to pass much of their agenda through the House, many of those bills currently get stuck in the Senate. A handful more seats in that chamber would give Democrats a better chance of overcoming Senators, which require 60 votes to break.

"A lot of Republicans thought that 2006 was the low point, and that simply isn't the case," said Nathan Greenstein, political editor of the nonpartisan Washington Political Report, which predicts Democratic gains of eight to 12 seats in the House and three to five seats in the Senate.

"It's the 2006 never ended for Republicans," said Jennifer Duffy, of the nonpartisan Cook Political Report, which predicts Democratic gains of 10 to 20 seats in the House and four to seven in the Senate.

Roll Call

January 23, 2007 Tuesday

Nation; House Democratic Frosh Hosting PAC Fundraiser

SECTION: AT THE RACES

LENGTH: 264 words

The 41 freshman Democrats in the House have formed a new political action committee, and the PAC is scheduled to have its first fundraiser Wednesday evening.

The Democratic Freshman PAC is hosting its inaugural reception at Charlie Palmer Steak on Capitol Hill. Tickets cost $5,000 to become a member of the new PAC's steering committee. PACs are being asked to pony up $2,500, and an individual ticket costs $1,000.

In a related development, new Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee Chairman Chris Van Hollen (Md.) announced Monday that he has tapped Rep. Debbie Wasserman Schultz (Fla.) to head the DCCC's Frontline program, which works to protect potentially vulnerable Members.

The DCCC is giving its Frontline members specific fundraising goals for the early part of the election cycle, ranging from $650,000 to $1 million for the amount of money they should have banked by June 30. Frontline members also are being told that they must put together aggressive outreach and volunteer programs as well as a vigorous fundraising schedule.

Van Hollen said he has asked veteran Democratic Members in tough districts, such as Reps. Jim Matheson (Utah) and Dennis Moore (Kan.), to serve as mentors to the Frontliners.

In a memo, Van Hollen said some potentially vulnerable Democratic Freshmen, such as Reps. Kirsten Gillibrand (N.Y.), Harry Mitchell (Ariz.), Patrick Murphy (Pa.) and Heath Shuler (N.C.), already are battle-tested, "and head into 2008 with a more solid grasp of the political landscape of their districts and a strong understanding of what it takes to win."

Freshman Democrats work with 'rainmaker'

BYLINE: By Eric Pfeiffer, THE WASHINGTON TIMES

SECTION: PAGE ONE; A01

LENGTH: 1038 words

The class of 41 freshman House Democrats has selected a registered lobbyist to form its political action committee, in what ethics watchdogs and Republicans are calling a contradiction of their promise to end a "culture of corruption" in Washington.

The custodian of the Democratic Freshmen PAC is William C. Oldaker, 65, whose most-recent lobbying clients include the oil industry, the tobacco lobby, pharmaceutical industries and American Indian gambling interests. Mr. Oldaker also has been removed from several Democratic PACs over conflict-of-interest concerns.

According to a 2005 report by the Center for Public Integrity (CPI), "When lobbyist William Oldaker sits down to negotiate with a member of Congress, he brings years of experience working for the federal government to the table, as well as the legislative resources of his own firm. He also brings quite a bit of money."

CPI has publicly referred to Mr. Oldaker as a "rainmaker," for his ability to successfully represent his clients' interests before congressional lawmakers. Many prominent lawmakers, and especially those seeking higher office, form PACs to donate money to other candidates or causes.

"As the treasurer of 23 political committees, groups that raise funds to elect or defeat politicians, Oldaker has signed off on more than $2 million in donations since 1998 to the parties and candidates he is paid to influence," the CPI report reads. "At the same time that these committees doled out millions to politicians, some 100 companies paid Oldaker's lobbying firms $14 million to influence some of the same lawmakers."

However, because Mr. Oldaker serves as the Democratic Freshmen PAC's custodian and not its treasurer, he is not directly responsible for fundraising efforts. According to Federal Election Commission forms, a PAC custodian typically houses a PAC's financial records. A records search shows that the law firm he works for, Oldaker, Biden & Belair LLC, and the Democratic Freshmen PAC share the same Northwest Washington address.

Nonetheless, some campaign-finance watchdogs say the connection shows the new Democratic majority is not pursuing ethics reform as forcefully as promised on the campaign trail.

"Isn't the point to avoid even the appearance of impropriety?" said Naomi Seligman Steiner of Citizens for Responsibility and Ethics in Washington, when asked about Mr. Oldaker's involvement in the PAC. "We're not any more comfortable with it this year than we were last year."

Some House Democrats have expressed frustration that the lobbying and ethics reform measures touted during the 2006 election have been scaled back to some degree in recent weeks. While most watchdog groups say any reform will be an improvement over the status quo, not all are happy with the changes.

"From Day One, the freshman PAC has operated in accordance with all aspects of the law," said Rep. Mike Thompson, co-chairman of the Democratic Freshmen PAC, said when asked about Mr. Oldaker's involvement.

Mr. Oldaker said his involvement has been limited to questions of election law and other basic "operational aspects."

He did acknowledge that some people have objected to having a registered lobbyist simultaneously serving as a PAC fundraiser but said "I'm very supportive of the actions the House and Senate have taken" so far in the pursuit of ethics and lobbying reform.

National Republican Congressional Committee (NRCC) spokesman Ken Spain said that "it didn't take this group of freshmen Democrats long to figure out how to play the Washington game of special interest politics."

"It appears that fighting corruption in Congress was nothing more than a campaign slogan to newly elected Democrats," he said.

The PAC's treasurer, James Smith, a former fundraiser for the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee and also a registered lobbyist in Washington for the past two decades, dismissed the NRCC's criticism and said he hasn't spoken to Mr. Oldaker "in months."

"It's absurd for the NRCC to criticize me for fundraising for Democrats," he said. "That's what they do for their party full time."

Mr. Smith says Mr. Oldaker, a former FEC lawyer, was brought in to file papers and help "get the PAC up and running."

FEC guidelines do not require the Democratic Freshmen PAC to disclose their fundraising numbers until June. However, Mr. Smith tells The Washington Times that the PAC has held "a number of" fundraisers and distributed money to freshman lawmakers running for re-election in 2008.

Mr. Oldaker has previously overseen the leadership PACs of high-ranking Democrats, including Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid of Nevada and Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Max Baucus of Montana.

However, Mr. Kennedy and Sen. Byron L. Dorgan of North Dakota both removed Mr. Oldaker, after the CPI report was published. Shortly thereafter, Sen. Blanche Lincoln of Arkansas also removed Mr. Oldaker from his position as treasurer of her PAC.

No staff members for the three senators returned calls or e-mails seeking comment.

Mr. Oldaker stepped down as treasurer of Mr. Reid's leadership PAC in early 2006, because the Nevada Democrat wanted to avoid having a registered lobbyist simultaneously serving in the capacity as his PAC treasurer. However, Mr. Oldaker remains an unpaid, "trusted adviser" to the PAC, according to Mr. Reid's office.

29044242306

Mrs. Lincoln, who hired Mr. Oldaker as treasurer in 2001, received contributions to her 2004 re-election campaign from the Edison Electric Institute, Equifax, the National Cable and Telecommunications Association, the New York Stock Exchange, the Nuclear Energy Institute, Pfizer and SBC Communications, according to public finance records.

In addition, Sen. Mark Pryor, Arkansas Democrat, hired Mr. Oldaker in 2003 and has received contributions from Altria, Florida Power & Light, the Nuclear Energy Institute and SBC Communications.

Mr. Oldaker has also represented several universities and hospitals. He was paid $60,000 by the Viejas Band of Kumeyaay Indians in the first half of 2006, according to public lobbying records. In 2002, Mr. Oldaker's firm was paid $80,000 by the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands to work on minimum-wage legislation in contacts with both the Senate and House.
